Principal
Vice Principal
Registrar
Deans
Members of Convocation
Fellow Students

I am so glad for the opportunity given me by the Management of the Methodist University College Ghana to deliver this speech on behalf of my fellow freshmen and women.

Indeed, the Bible says all things work together for the good of those who love the Lord. Looking at circumstances that led to us finding our way into MUCG, we can only say that, it is God Himself who is working things out for our good. Since our admission and the few days we have so far been in MUCG, we are fully convinced and filled with so much confidence that, come what may, MUCG is capable of preparing us academically and spiritually for higher academic pursuits and career prospects in the future.

Already we can feel the air of academic excellence that is integral to the Methodist education system and it is our hope that this will permeate all spectrum of work throughout our period of studies here. It is also our hope that, that spirit of excellence will reflect in our final results after our studies here.

Good things do not just happen, people make them happen. We as freshmen and women, therefore know that obtaining academic qualifications in MUCG will not come on a silver platter. It will only come by dint of hard work, dedication and honesty. We therefore pledge to work very hard and put in our best as far as our education in MUCG is concerned so that we can leave this place better students than we came and also make MUCG proud.

A sound mind, they say, lives in a healthy body. For us to have sound mind to study therefore, we expect all our colleague freshmen and women to keep the MUCG environment clean; and also maintain personal hygiene and sanitation. We pledge as students to co-operate and maintain the peace on campus and also keep noise levels at the bearest minimum in order to maintain the serene atmosphere we currently have, which is very congenial for good academic work.

Touching on morality and discipline, my colleague freshmen and women I will like to assure the MUCG management and staff that we will do everything possible to abide by all MUCG rules and regulations; especially the MUCG Dress Code. We will dress decently and will be willing at all times, to be called to order by Faculty and staff whenever we go astray.

Concerning the Wednesday Worship Services on campus, some of us, freshmen and women have already started attending and have been benefitting tremendously. I call on my fellow students, Faculty and staff to continue to participate effectively so as to promote a healthy spiritual atmosphere on campus, that will embrace all categories of the University Community.

As I mentioned earlier, our final expectation is to come out with flying colours in our final year examinations so as to give ourselves a bright future and also make MUCG shine above all private universities in our dear nation Ghana.

I Thank you for listening and God bless you all.